Professor, Graduate Tax Program
Georgetown University Law Center invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure track position in its Graduate Tax Program. The Graduate Tax Program has over 250 full and part-time students enrolled in both on-campus and online courses. It offers a Master of Laws (LL.M.) in Taxation, a Master of Studies in Law (M.S.L.) in Taxation for non-lawyers, and certificate programs in four specialized areas (international tax, state and local tax, employee benefits, and estate planning).

The duties of this position include teaching approximately two courses (up to six credits) each fall and spring semester; advising students; supervising independent student research papers; and additional administrative responsibilities including the review and development of the graduate tax curriculum, recruiting prospective students, and leading or participating in tax events and career-related programming.

Required Qualifications:
- J.D. degree from an ABA-accredited law school
- A minimum of five years of relevant tax practice experience in a law firm, accounting firm, government, or academia
- Broad expertise and ability to teach an array of tax courses to J.D. and LL.M. students, including federal individual income taxation, taxation of property transactions, income tax accounting, tax procedure, and taxation of business entities
- Excellent oral and written communication skills

Preferred Qualifications:
- LL.M. in Taxation degree
- Teaching experience at the J.D. or LL.M. level
- Expertise in partnership or international taxation

Submission Guidelines:
