MEASURED TAX ENFORCEMENT
FRIDAY, JANUARY 27, 2012

12:30PM - ROOM D201

Professor Leandra Lederman is the William W. Oliver Professor of Tax Law and Director of the Tax Program at the Indiana University Maurer School of Law. She teaches Federal Income Tax, Corporate Tax, Tax Procedure, and Tax Policy Colloquium.

Professor Lederman was a faculty member at George Mason University School of Law from 1997 until 2005. She spent the 2002-2003 academic year at the University of Texas School of Law as a visiting professor. From 1994 to 1997, she was a member of the faculty of Mercer University's Walter F. George School of Law. In 2001, Professor Lederman was recognized by George Mason University for excellence in teaching; in 2005, she received the Law Alumni Association Legal Teaching Award from New York University School of Law; and in 2009, she received a Trustees' Teaching Award from the Maurer School of Law. In October 2011, she taught U.S. Federal Income Tax at the Universidad de Navarra in Pamplona, Spain.

Professor Lederman received an A.B. degree cum laude from Bryn Mawr College in 1987, with honors in her major of Romance Languages. In 1990, she earned a J.D. cum laude from New York University School of Law, where she was a Note and Comment Editor of the N.Y.U. Law Review and was elected to the Order of the Coif. Professor Lederman subsequently earned her LL.M. in taxation from N.Y.U., where she was a student editor of the Tax Law Review. After practicing law as an associate at White & Case in New York City and receiving her LL.M., she clerked for Judge David Laro of the United States Tax Court in Washington, D.C.

Professor Lederman has written numerous articles on policy issues in the areas of federal income tax (individual and corporate), tax controversies, and tax administration. Her work has included empirical analyses and a law-and-economics approach to tax issues. Professor Lederman is also the author of Understanding Corporate Taxation (2nd ed. 2006), and co-author with Kansas Law School Dean Stephen W. Mazza of the Tax Controversies: Practice and Procedure casebook and Teacher's Manual (3rd ed. 2009); its 2010 Update Letter and 2011 Supplement; and a Code, Regulations, and Other Materials volume (3rd ed. 2006). Additionally, Professor Lederman served as General Editor of a treatise, Federal Tax Practice and Procedure (2003).
