

University of Mississippi Seeks Visiting Professor in Taxation

The University of Mississippi School of Law invites applications and nominations for a visiting professor during the 2022-2023 academic year. Depending on the courses that are being taught, we are flexible as to one semester (fall or spring) or full academic-year visitorships. Appointments will be at the rank of assistant, associate, or full professor depending on experience.

We are looking for a candidate to teach two tax or tax related courses per semester.

Qualifications

A candidate must have a J.D. degree from an ABA accredited law school and a commitment to teaching in an environment dedicated to excellence in teaching and mentoring of students. We look for innovative faculty with a preference for both practice and teaching experience. Applicants must demonstrate a commitment to service to legal education and to the wider community as well as a desire to engage in the intellectual life of the Law School. The University of Mississippi School of Law is dedicated to the aims of diversity and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities.

Application Instructions

To apply, please submit cover letter, curriculum vitae, and the contact information for three references through the University of Mississippi Career site. The position will be open until filled or an adequate applicant pool is reached. Questions about our visiting faculty position should be directed to Professor Richard Gershon igershon@olemiss.edu, Co-Chair of the Faculty Appointments Committee.

The Law School and Oxford

As an outstanding public law school, the University of Mississippi School of Law leads, excels, and inspires by preparing students for the practice of law in a changing global marketplace, expanding the horizons of legal knowledge through scholarly research, and serving diverse communities in the state, region, nation, and world. Please visit law.olemiss.edu for more information about the Law School.

Oxford, Mississippi is touted as the “Cultural Mecca of the South” because musicians, artists and writers alike find inspiration in Oxford’s rich history, small town charm and creative community. Oxford is also known for its awarding winning restaurants, its walkable, historic square, and Ole Miss athletics. It’s a great place to live or visit and has been named by USA Today as one of the top six college towns in the nation. It is included in The Best 100 Small Towns in America.

The University of Mississippi is an EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disability/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity/Title VI/Title VII/Title IX/504/ADA/ADEA employer.